

KING (in bed chambers)

Congratulations! You are King Louis XIV! You are about to experience a typical day at your palace at Versailles.

ROUSER

Two rousers enter the king's bed chambers (out of the classroom doors) to get him ready and dressed for the day. The "king" will not know exactly what to do, he will only know that he is the king. Spend at least 30 seconds with him outside before bringing him in. You should greet him by saying,

Rouser A: Good morning your Majesty.

Rouser B: Did you sleep well your highness?

Rouser A: It is time to begin your day.

Rouser B: Please come with us your majesty.

Then walk him into the room at each of his side and pause in front of the door as you wait for the physician. Once the physician is done, walk him a few steps forward, and wait for two other people who will bring his crown and his cape. When this is done, bring him to sit at the breakfast table (The two desks in front of the SmartBoard).

At the end of Speech #3, come to the king saying, "Good evening your majesty, let us take you to prepare for supper and bed." Walk him to the door, where others will remove his crown and cape, and then lead him out the door.

ROUSER

Two rousers enter the king's bed chambers (out of the classroom doors) to get him ready and dressed for the day. The "king" will not know exactly what to do, he will only know that he is the king. Spend at least 30 seconds with him outside before bringing him in. You should greet him by saying,

Rouser A: Good morning your Majesty.

Rouser B: Did you sleep well your highness?

Rouser A: It is time to begin your day.

Rouser B: Please come with us your majesty.

Then walk him into the room at each of his side and pause in front of the door as you wait for the physician. Once the physician is done, walk him a few steps forward, and wait for two other people who will bring his crown and his cape. When this is done, bring him to sit at the breakfast table (The two desks in front of the SmartBoard).

At the end of Speech #3, come to the king saying, "Good evening your majesty, let us take you to prepare for supper and bed." Walk him to the door, where others will remove his crown and cape, and then lead him out the door.

PHYSICIAN

As soon as the king enters the room, the physician check his health. Check each of his eyes, each of his ears, and then say "say AH your majesty" and look in his mouth. Then give the rousers a thumbs up. Return your seat.

CROWN COURTIER

As soon as the physician is done with his daily check up, approach the king, saying, "greetings your majesty," and place the crown on his head and the upon his shoulders. Then return your seats. AT THE VERY END, when the king is leaving, go and take his cape and crown before he leaves.

CAPE COURTIER

As soon as the physician is done with his daily check up, approach the king, saying, "greetings your majesty," and place the crown on his head and the upon his shoulders. Then return your seats. AT THE VERY END, when the king is leaving, go and take his cape and crown before he leaves.

KING (at breakfast)

Good morning your Majesty! Please sit and enjoy your delicious breakfast of broth (iced tea)! Feel free to take your time, and don't mind the dozens of nobles and courtiers. They are just here to watch you eat.

HEAD COURTIER

As soon as the King has finished his broth, Approach him from the door side and say, "good morning your Majesty! You are looking splendid today! Let us take a walk through the hall of mirrors." Escort the king slowly around the room, starting from the side near the door, around the back of the desks to the windows, and then to the front of the SmartBoard, and then have him sit at the round table facing forward.

After speech #2, the King will call you over to go for a stroll. Take him the opposite way around the classroom from last time, and then bring him to the front.

FANLORD/FANLADY

Follow Louis XIV like fans as he walks through the hall of mirrors (get up as soon as you hear "hall of mirrors"). Later, also walk with him through the garden (get up as soon as you hear "garden").

FANLORD/FANLADY

Follow Louis XIV like fans as he walks through the hall of mirrors (get up as soon as you hear "hall of mirrors"). Later, also walk with him through the garden (get up as soon as you hear "garden").

FANLORD/FANLADY

Follow Louis XIV like fans as he walks through the hall of mirrors (get up as soon as you hear "hall of mirrors"). Later, also walk with him through the garden (get up as soon as you hear "garden").

FANLORD/FANLADY

Follow Louis XIV like fans as he walks through the hall of mirrors (get up as soon as you hear "hall of mirrors"). Later, also walk with him through the garden (get up as soon as you hear "garden").

FANLORD/FANLADY

Follow Louis XIV like fans as he walks through the hall of mirrors (get up as soon as you hear "hall of mirrors"). Later, also walk with him through the garden (get up as soon as you hear "garden").

FANLORD/FANLADY

Follow Louis XIV like fans as he walks through the hall of mirrors (get up as soon as you hear "hall of mirrors"). Later, also walk with him through the garden (get up as soon as you hear "garden").

SPEECH ONE

As soon as Louis XIV sits at the big round table, come to the front to give your speech.

WAITER

After Speech One, approach the King with the plate of treats and offer him one, saying, "Good afternoon your majesty, which of these treats would you like for your dinner?" Let him pick one and then return to your seat.

SPEECH TWO

As soon as Louis XIV has his dinner in hand, come to the front to give your speech.

KING (during speeches)

Enjoy the speeches praising your greatness. When offered dinner, take only one and you may eat it. After the second speech, stand and summon your head courtier saying, "Head Courtier, we wish to announce our intentions for the day. We would like to take a stroll through the palace gardens, and then enjoy a hunt." After the stroll, you will be given your rifle (wiffle ball bat), and you should stand in the front of the room looking to the back for anything worth shooting. If you see an animal, SHOOT! Once the hunt is over, you will return for a final speech before being taken back to your chambers for the evening. What a day!

MOOSE

When the King goes for a hunt, you must hide behind the back desks for a whole minute, and then pop up with your hands making moose antlers and make a moose sound, until he shoots you, at which point you must stand against the wall like a wall hanging until the end.

HUNTING COURTIER

When the king has returned to the front of the room after his stroll in the gardens, bring him his gun (wiffle ball bat), saying, "Greetings your majesty. May I present you with the royal musket for your afternoon hunt!" You may stay behind him while he hunts and applaud and offer congratulations if he gets an animal. When he shoots the animal, after congrats, go take the animal to the side board and have it stand there as a mounted trophy.

SPEEECH THREE

After the moose hunting, give your speech.