

3. What role, and how much of a role, did bread, or the lack thereof, play in the development of the French Revolution? For what sector of society was this issue of the most concert?

4. What made the French Revolution so revolutionary? In other words, in what ways was it calling for and carrying out through action dramatic changes to the status quo?

