AND MODERN WORLD REVIEW

Directions: In order to help you prepare both for your Unit Test and for the upcoming Regents Exam, I have decided to do things a little differently. Your test will consist entirely of multiple-choice questions, though several of the questions will be connected to a document or graphic to analyze. Since, especially when it comes to Modern World content, there is a wide variety of information covered on the Regents, I am giving you a different type of review assignment. All of the questions on your test are taken from previous Regents exams. I am letting you know that I used questions exclusively from tests between June 2014 and August 2010. In order to study, I want you to go online to view those past exams, find the questions that relate to the period for this test, and read through the questions to see which ones you understand well and which ones you find challenging. For those you do not understand, use the organizer below to record the exam date, the question number, the general topic, and a specific question if you have one. Then, in class on Thursday, we will spend most of the period discussing these topics based on your preferences.

NOTE: On the Regents, the multiple-choice questions are mostly in chronological order from 1-40, and then 41-50 are a mix of topics. Therefore, most of the relevant questions for your upcoming test can be found in the later 30s and mixed into the 40s. You can just scan through the end of the test to review relevant questions.
